HOME OIL MILL ONE
OF LARGEST PLANTS
OF ITS KIND IN THIS SECTION OF SOUTH

Cooking Is the Acid Test In Success of Oil Mill
Operation

LARGE PLANT HERE IS UNUSUALLY BUSY PLACE

Fine Cloths Used in Separation
Of the Oil From the Seed

(By J. E. Blair.)

As typical of the South as her cotton fields and cotton mills, are our cotton seed oil factories. This community has the distinction of possessing one of the very largest of such plants in the entire state—it is the Home Oil Mill company, located in Albany, a few feet north west of the L. & N. crossing at Moulton street and a stone's throw west of the railroad—W. R. Spight is president and Treasurer, Col. T. C. Spight, is vice president and Fred S. Hunt is secretary and general manager. W. R. Spight gave Mr. Hunt the following bouquet of praise—"I think Mr. Hunt is an expert in his line. He is president of the Alabama Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, and is thoroughly conversant with the facts of the business."

The High Places of Interest.

It is said Homer made a success of his Iliad, in part, by beginning to learn it from the highest peak of interest. Now the high places of interest in the work of the Home Oil mill, are the giant stewers in which the juice from the cotton seed is cooked. If the cooking is imperfect not enough of the precious oil is removed from the kernels of "meats" of the seed. Mr. Hunt says that to get the right chemical change by cooking is the "acid test," the "crux," the "crucial test" etc., of the whole intricate job of running an oil mill successfully—barring of course efficiency in management. He subscribes as an oil mill man to Owen Meridith's doctrine—"you can live without cook." Hunt says right you can live without love—what is passion but pining? You can live without friends, you can live without books, but the civilized man cannot live without cooks." Hunt says right cooking is to get a 100 percent of the oil out of his seeds some day, but that neither he nor any of his brother oil men are at the present getting over 95 percent.

The Building and What Goes on Therein.

The main building of the Home Oil mill, according to Mr. Spight, is a relic of the "boom days" and that a large machine shop used to be housed therein. This building is a substantial brick and is large about 125'x225'. There are several other buildings including a cotton gin, and they all stand on a four acre lot. The buildings were dead for years and years until the present company got busy. These men claim they did what W. Shakespeare said could not be done namely "put a spirit into the ribs of death". While waiting on Mr. Hunt at the mill, "safety first" propaganda everywhere—advertisement met my eye which said, "If you are wise you would not do that," reference being made to the picture of a man standing on a soap box, and that box on the top of a slender step ladder. And a nearby negro gave voice to the following bit of wisdom, "You cannot run forward while looking backward". Mr. Hunt says that when the cotton seed reach his plant his first task is to get an average 150 pounds of dirt out of every ton of seed sent him. The seed first go between revolving fans while strong currents of air are applied. The seed are then sent along a constantly revolving conveyor, as another means of cleaning them, before they go through the "linters"—machines that

WOMAN TO DECIDE IN "CUPID'S COURT"

Mrs. Helen Long Rodgers, wife of a prominent business man of Hamilton, N. J., will cast the deciding vote in the Lovers' Co-operative Union established there. The court consists of three men and three women, one of each of whom is married, one single and one a widow or widower. The union was formed to pick the proper men for the proper women, or vice versa. Questionnaires are supplied to those applying for mates, and through this medium marriages are arranged. Should two suitors ask for the same woman it is for the judges of the court to decide who gets her. Already 2,000 prospective husbands and wives have been enrolled. Thomas B. Delker, secretary of the court, is shown with the first batch of letters presented to the judges. Counselman J. Louis O'Donnell is the married man of the court.

Bondsmen Volunteer For Bonds In Case Strikers Are Arrested

The following official statement was issued today by H. C. Hutchinson, chairman of the press committee of the federated shop crafts:

The furnishing of over a score of bondsmen to the chairman to volunteer in case strikers are arrested in the future was a feature of the Masonic theater meeting of rail strikers this morning.

The usual opening exercises were followed by an address by W. H. Wilson, boiler maker general chairman. Mr. Wilson's speech dealt with the legal requirements of Judge Grubb's injunction.

The following was read, page No. 3 of this morning's Nashville Tennessean:

Decision No. 222, Addendum No. 6, of the U. S. Railway Labor Board, stating that a man must have four years' experience at the trade before he shall be employed as a mechanic.

EXPLOSIVE HURLED AT A DINING CAR

(By International News Service.)

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 11.—Officers today are searching for the persons, who at midnight last night, attempted to dynamite a car in the Frisco yards here. According to railway officials, the explosive, which was hurled by someone, missed the diner by a few feet, striking the top of a box car and demolishing it.

Had the charge reached its mark and been thrown a few minutes later, heavy loss of life would have resulted as the diner is used by employees of the railroad, about 100 of them eating a midnight lunch in it.

(By International News Service.)

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 11.—Facing the greatest crisis of the railway strike, federal and local officers today spread a huge dragnet for bombers who early today hurled 23 deadly missiles in the Santa Fe yards, terrorizing the district for miles around.

Only one man was hurt, Deputy Marshal Alverson being severely burned.

It did not say four years picking blackberries or plowing corn. He would also call the public's attention to the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission has made laws regarding the inspection of locomotives and boilers, and said laws are very strict, and in view of the fact that in the past 30 days the break-downs and general condition of locomotives and cars tends to show that the railroads are violating the rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and such conditions would make it detrimental to the public welfare, unless the law is complied with.

H. O. Cline, Robert Woods and others made short talks. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Frank Lewis. The opening prayer was by Rev. T. B. Harwell followed by the hymn "Ring the Message Out" as led by Laxson, McCall, Gilliam and Krel. Signed, H. C. HUTCHISON, Chairman Press Committee.

2ND CHOICE VOTES DECIDE 2 RACES

In two of the offices which was voted on in the primary Tuesday, at least two successful candidates owe their election to the fact that they received a number of second choice votes. This applies to the race for commissioner of the first district, when Jack Robinson was successful over his nearest opponent W. B. McCullough, on account of the fact that he received a large number of second choice votes.

The next case was that of commissioner of the second district, when A. M. Dunaway was elected over his nearest opponent William J. Thompson, on account of the second choice votes received by him. Mr. Thompson received the largest number of first choice votes, but Mr. Dunaway eclipsed him with the second choice votes.

Missing Ford Is Found By Owner

A two passenger Ford car was missing from the garage of John L. Proctor early this morning. While Mr. Proctor was getting ready to send out advertising to nearby cities in the effort to locate it, the car was found near the water tower, where it had evidently been abandoned by joy riders. The car was not injured, and was soon in the hands of its rightful owner. Late yesterday afternoon the gas tank was filled, and there was still considerable gas left when found.

Serious Threats To Traffic By the Refusal Of Trainmen To Move Any Trains Until Guards Are Removed

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Serious threats to traffic by refusal of trainmen to move trains where troops are on guard, renewed outbreaks of violence resulting in several deaths and the possibility of walkouts by the maintenance of way men on various roads, marked the progress of the strike of shopcrafts employees as the railroad heads and union leaders gathered for conferences today to consider separately the President's proposal for ending the strike.

Several passenger trains are stalled in Arizona or Southeastern California, deserted by crews who refuse to handle trains until armed guards are removed. Some are stranded in scorchingly hot desert spots. Two non-union employees of the New York Central were shot and killed at Cleveland. Two negro employees of the Rock Island at Hurlbut, Ark., were shot and probably fatally wounded. At Birmingham an attempt was made to blow up a workmen's dining quarters and dynamite was used to blow up shanty cars and a diner in the Southern yards at Asheville, N. C. None were hurt.

BIG FOUR MEMBERS GO OUT IN WEST

(By International News Service.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—A report reached headquarters of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen here that firemen and their helpers, members of one of the "Big Four" railroad unions, had walked out today on the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific railroad at Ogden, J. A. Ford, local chairman, was not advised as to the number of men out, but said he understood the entire union personnel of that division was affected.

The walkout was said to have had the effect of tying up an important trans-continental route to the far west.

REPRESENTATIVES OF SIXTEEN UNIONS GATHERING IN WASHINGTON TO DISCUSS THEIR POLICY OF SYMPATHETIC ACTION

Shopmen Expected To Reject President's Proposal On Seniority While Rail Executives Are Silent

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—While President Harding met with his cabinet at the white house today to consider further action in the grave industrial situation, representatives of the sixteen standard railroad unions went into session a short distance away to formulate a policy of sympathetic action that will make the railroad strike more effective.

These developments were in prospect as the two meetings got underway this morning:

1. The striking railway shopmen will reject the President's proposition of Monday for the men to return to work pending a decision on the seniority question by the railway labor board.

2. Other railroad unions, including the four powerful brotherhoods, will agree on a policy of sympathetic action to support the strikers, without authorizing a general railroad strike.

3. This will be accomplished by authorization of "individual or voluntary" strikes by members of affiliated unions whenever and wherever, in the judgment of the workers, their equipment or working conditions are such as to be prejudicial to life or limb.

4. Union men will be permitted to decide for themselves whether they want to stay on the job—the result of which is expected to be a slow, progressive walkout on the road by all classes of railroad labor.

5. Railway labor unions not now on strike will combine in a statement of policy to the government, inviting attention to the gravity of the situation and intimating that unless relief measures soon are found, nationwide paralysis of transportation is inevitable.

6. President Harding will wait the replies of both union and railway executives, meeting in New York today, and then will go to congress next week with a special message, asking for a legislative grant of broad powers to deal with the situation.

The meeting today of the 16 standard railway unions brought together the greatest representation of railroad labor since the days when it massed solidly behind the Adamson eight hour law and shoved it through congress.

Union leaders made it plain the meeting was dictated by common necessity, in view of their firm belief that locking in the background of the present strike of railway shopmen is a definite campaign on the part of the roads to "smash the unions".

Against this effort, they said, the whole strength of organized labor will be thrown.

There was every indication that the session of union chiefs would be a lengthy one and it was considered likely that no reply would be made to the white house until tomorrow or Monday.

TO FILL ENGAGEMENT

The Albany quartette will go to Caddo, Lawrence County, Sunday to sing at revival services now being conducted there. The local singers are winning a wide reputation.

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Presidents of a majority of the 148 main line railroads of America will go into secret session in the New Haven board room at the Grand Central station today to consider President Harding's second proposal for an armistice in the rail shopmen's strike.

While none of the executives are inclined to be garrulous, before entering the council chamber, yet more than one admits that he expects tonight to witness an agreement.

There is no great diversity of opinion as to what that agreement might be. Those few who are inclined to speculate at all on the probable outcome said that they believed the presidential plan would be accepted—though several strong reservations might be made to place certain officials who, believing they have won the strikes on their respective roads, see no reason why they should give in.

Briefly President Harding's present proposal calls for:

1. The carriers to take the strikers back.
2. The strikers to go back to work.
3. Both sides to submit the question of seniority to the railroad labor board for a definite decision.

The roads maintain that since the men quit work voluntarily, they must return to work in the status of new men, which means that the strike breakers, now employed, would get the best round house jobs if they wish to remain at work—providing, of course, that they are efficient.

The unions hold that the men have never quit work for all time, but have "suspended" work for a strike. They view seniority as the capital of a worker and declare that it should not be taken from them any more than cash capital from the roads.

EXECUTIVES CONSIDER

(By International News Service.)

New York, Aug. 11.—President Harding's second set of proposals for settling the national strike of railway shopmen, was formally presented the railway executives at their meeting here today. They were discussed at length during the morning session but no decision was reached.

Before adjournment for lunch a committee was appointed to draft a reply to the President.

The report of this committee was to be taken up, at the afternoon session of the executives.

It was understood that sentiment during the morning meeting was about evenly divided on accepting the President's proposition with modifications and "standing pat".

It was learned that the legal department of practically every railroad represented at today's session have notified the President that the roads will be liable for damages if they discharge the strikebreakers they have employed and reinstate the strikers.

The legal advisers hold that the railroads, in the advertisements they have inserted in newspapers, have stated that the employment would be permanent and that the strike breakers would have grounds for damages suits if they were discharged.

The presidents, it was said, were considering this angle today.

PAVED STREETS PAY AND ARE WORTH PROTECTING

Paved streets, like hard surfaced highways, are a mark of progress and all towns need them, just as well counties need good roads. The street paving comes high and often it is damaged, even destroyed in time, by heavy travel and failure to keep heavy trucks from tearing them to pieces, but in the end no town that ever has tried paved streets has been willing to do without them afterward. As an investment they pay good dividends in satisfaction, in enhancing the value of the property on them and in adding to the appearance of a town.

It has become so now that no town of 10,000 or more inhabitants can afford not to have its business streets paved and many of them find the paving of residence streets desirable and a great benefit in many ways. In fact the Dallas, Texas, News says it takes paved street to make a good town, and the News is the leading paper in a part of the world that is noted for its good towns. The News says:

"Paving is one of those modern conveniences that modern people demand, at least modern town folk. There is so much wheeled traffic in a town that unless the streets are paved and kept washed the dust becomes unpopular, not to say unbearable. Same with mud, in the mud section. But paving costs a lot of money and is easily ruined. Often it is packed to pieces by workmen drawing good wages and searching for places to couple or uncouple gas mains or electric conduits or water pipes, or looking frankly for fishing worms. At other times heavily loaded trucks, some of them loaded to the gunwales with gravel or sand or brick, or ice cream cones, roll over the paving and jar it from its base. Also some paving isn't worth a darn even before it has been attacked by picks and spades or heavy loads. But a street that has been given a good pavement and has not been opened and sewered up by the public utilities and is not oppressed by juggernauts shod with double wide tires, is a thing of beauty and a joy for all those who live or have business in or alongside of it. A good pavement that is permitted to endure is worth its cost, if the price was right. Property owners should be careful to get the worth of their money when they pay for paving and to keep reckless loaders off it. But granting that they do these things, their investment in paving is an investment profitable." This is giving the paving matter a fair deal, showing all sides of it and giving some of the reasons why paving of streets sometimes discourages people and towns. The main thing is to get good paving to start with and to keep it from being torn to pieces with "juggernauts shod with double-wide tires."—Anniston Star.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

Tuesday the women were busy as bees preparing their ballots. Out of 72,000 registered and qualified to vote, perhaps ninety per cent exercised their right of suffrage, many of whom for the first time.

It was the occasion for them brushing up in politics, and they did it in many localities, if not in all of them. Certainly in the larger cities of the state they were organized and acted in concert. In other years when men would gather in the sitting room to smoke and discuss politics, the women would go to visit a neighbor, or to the kitchen to look over things.

"This is no place for me," she would say, as she skipped away, taking it for granted that your mind never was made to comprehend such deep stuff as politics.

But just a few words to you, good women, and we say "good" advisedly, and we wish to say them on this, the dawn of a new era to you, carrying with it grave responsibilities in the civic life of the community.

To say that politics is "too much" for you is to admit that you are not yet qualified to exercise the high right which has been conferred upon you. And there still are many backward-looking men who will gladly grant you that, and rejoice to hear you make such admission.

As a matter of fact, politics is not "too much" to you. In thinking that it is, you are merely obsessed by a tradition, fostered by men. The understanding of politics calls mainly for that common sense, that intuitive judgment with which many women are better equipped than their husbands.

It calls for discrimination between the right and wrong of issues, in which, as you know, your judgment frequently is less erring than your husband's.

"On moral issues, a woman is five times right to a man's one," said a philosopher. And, basically, madam, the issues of politics are moral ones, such as you know how to settle so well.

You approach the ballot free of the prejudice and tradition that befog the minds of men.

Here are some general rules to guide you in your new tradition.

Do not run away from political discussions in your home. Listen in. It's your business to do so.

Read political news and views in the newspapers. Don't turn away from an article just because it's "politics."

School yourself in the issues of the campaign and the qualities of candidates. From opinions. As you become more certain of yourself, discuss them with other women and, afterwards, with your male relatives. You will soon discover that politics is not "too much" for you.—Montgomery Journal.

FORD INVENTION IN INDUSTRIAL LIFE

Henry Ford is credited with inventing many things, and we are constantly hearing of new Ford inventions, about which we are given the most minute details. But there is one invention of Mr. Ford's that is seldom mentioned, yet it is one that threatens to revolutionize the industrial world.

He has invented a scheme to prevent lockouts, or vacations, or whatever it is that prevents employer and employee from getting together and keeping together with the utmost good will, doing away with the necessity of labor organizing to protect itself.

The importance and value of this invention is now being demonstrated, is shown to the country past worthy of consideration at this time. In New in a practical way, but there are lessons in the York state alone in 1920, strikes cost 10,608,483 days of work. Just think what good and how much could have been accomplished in that time! Controversial merits are not to be taken into consideration here—just the bare facts. How much money the workers could have earned, had these industrial disputes not have existed? How much in finished products could have been turned out; how much in profits might have been piled up, had things been going as happy as the marriage bells?

Yet there were 240 industrial disputes in New York in the year, with 344,000 persons directly involved, with the main causes of trouble due to matters of increased wages, shorter hours and trade unionism. The result of these differences so far as settled when the report of the state bureau of mediation and arbitration was made that 74 strikes were successful, 73 partly so and 93 lost.

The department report is to the effect that the plan of "compulsory arbitration" is not satisfactory to both sides in settling all controversies between the employed and the employing groups has won for himself special niches in the Hall of Fame. That man is HENRY FORD.—Montgomery Journal.

The possibilities of Morgan County becoming a great watermelon raising section, is brought forcibly to mind when one views the many fine melons now coming to this market. In every town in the county the same is the rule. If there was some way to hasten the maturity of the watermelon here, it would no doubt prove a paying venture. It has been demonstrated time and again in a small way that peaches do exceedingly well in this section; the possibility of raising them on a commercial scale would be no venture. It was demonstrated several years ago here that the Elberta peach thrives here, as several hundred trees were set on a high point south of here, and annually there was shipped several car loads. The cars were iced at the shipping point, and the peaches were put in bushel baskets, with mosquito netting securely fastened over the top. The peaches were fine, and found ready sale in the large markets of the country. From some cause the trees began to deteriorate, and after a few years the orchards were abandoned. Of no other place in the county has the project been tried out on a large scale, but there is at many places over the county this variety of peach in small numbers, which do well, and very rarely ever fail to produce fine fruit.

The fact is, Morgan county is a splendid place for all fruits and berries, and an intelligent effort is all that is needed to place this county along with the other large producing fruit and berry counties of the state. Fruit of fine quality never goes begging for sale in the markets of the county, as the housewife is always on the alert for this class of fruit to can and put away for the winter months. If there should be a surplus, it could find ready sale in other markets of the country.

Each day brings us nearer the season when the results of the years work will be realized, and the ingathering will begin in a very short time. The products of the farm are promising at this time, and the expected harvest will be a good one. At many points over the country can be seen large barns going up, this step being taken to better care for that which is to be saved, and provision is being made that all cattle and other live stock can be well taken care of during the winter months soon to be ushered in.

The present year will give the farmer a chance to get well on top again. With the hay crop as fine as ever produced in this county, and with a promising yield of corn, enough in any event to meet the needs of the year, and with the cotton crop of the county promising a fine yield, it is an opportune time for the man of the soil to climb up several rungs of the ladder which he has been forced to descend during the last two years. And the fact still is with us, that when the farmer does well, all other lines of business are successful accordingly.

The very delightful few days and nights experienced since the showers came this week, have been a great relief to the residents of the Tennessee for comfort. The backbone of the long dry hot spell seems to be broken, and from now on there will be experienced many of such days and nights. This particular section is fortunate indeed at this particular season each year in the temperature falling many degrees, especially during the nights, and cool nights beginning in August are an annual occurrence. No climate anywhere can compare favorably with that which is being experienced here just at this time.

CARPENTIER A REAL REEL HERO

George Carpentier is a real reel hero. He is playing the lead in a production being filmed in England. During the staging of one scene, in which the heroine, riding in a coach, is swept into a river, the plans went wrong. The current in the river proved stronger than was believed, and only quick swimming by Carpentier saved the actress's life. The upper photograph shows the coach being engulfed and the lower Carpentier swimming to the rescue. Note how the coach had begun to overturn. It was this danger that prompted Carpentier to plunge into the river and resulted in the filming of a scene not in the original scenario.

GETS PLEASANT SURPRISE

"About 6 months ago my father was very sick with his stomach, which had been troubling him for several years. Three doctors said he had cancer and one said it was gall stones—all agreed an operation necessary, but on account of his age I was afraid to risk it. I told a friend about it who said his wife had been through the same trouble and had been cured by taking May's Wonderful Remedy. I at once bought a bottle for father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than any 3 men." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince, or money refunded at all druggists everywhere.—Advertisement

Another High Point of Interest.

Because of the high pressure used the cloths that wrap the cotton seed meal have to be made of the strongest fibre on earth—and Russian camel's hair makes the fibre Mr. Hunt uses. He said he was getting the first camel's hair out of Russia since the war days, and that during the war he had to use Lama hair cloth, horse hair cloth, Persian sheep's hair cloth, Arabian camel's hair cloth and Chinese human hair cloth. The Russian camel's hair cloth is as thick as a brogan shoe sole, and costs seventy five cents a pound. Not only is this material very strong, but the fibre is so made as to let the juice of the seeds flow out freely. The smell of this oil is appetizing and it tastes good. After it is sent away and refined into lard, some like it better than "hog lard"—and some prophets say that just as the automobile will retire the horse, and artificial silk the silk worm, King cotton will some day retire the swine of the world.

The amber oil is piped away to its place. But the cotton seed meal out of which it came is so hard it has to be broken up and re-ground before it is sacked and shipped away for food. There is so much plant food in cotton seed meal, that it is often used for fertilizer—a great loss though, for had it been fed to stock. Even after it had nourished stock, the excrement still contains as much plant food as the original seed meal and less 15 percent, according to Mr. Hunt. There are a thousand and one valuable by-products made from cotton and its seed. One of which is a fine grade of paper, such as the manager of the Home Oil mill gave the writer to take notes on. And Mr. Hunt declared that some of the artificial silk spoken of by Superintendent Wright of the Silk mill, is made from cotton linters.

The Efficiency Program.

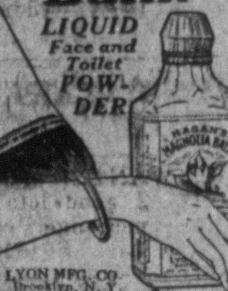

Part of the efficiency program of the Home Oil mill, is the use of hundreds of automatic sprinkler pipes, throughout the factories—their use has reduced fire insurance costs two or three times according to Mr. Spight. Human hands seldom touch any part of the many processes of this mill. The 450 h. p. engine, than which there is not a better one outside the very largest of industries, drives all the machinery. It broke up once however and threw a fly wheel up through the roof, loss $10,000.00, but covered by insurance. The ginning, is a separate and distinct job. It is done in a four machine ginney near the oil mill. The warehouse capacity of the Home Oil mill is 5000 tons.

Wants to thank their friends and customers for the business given them, during the past seven years, as today, the 11th of August is our Seventh Birthday, in the Furniture business, and we are very proud of the record. We have made, as most all know our first start in the furniture business, was a small second hand store, on Church street next door to the Ideal Market. And by hard work, and putting in from eleven to eighteen hours of hard work every day, and always trying to give every one a square deal, and the most for their money has caused our business to grow by leaps and bounds, for which we are very thankful and we wish to say that we are now better prepared to serve you than ever before.

Do not hesitate to call on us at any time, as we will be mighty glad to serve you.

So again thanking one and all who has helped to make our business what it is.

Visiting Celebrities Prove Southern States World's Champion Publicity Getters

Mary Margaret McBride, Noted Interviewer, Says All Famous Visitors Ask for Dixie

NEW YORK CITY—It makes no difference whether it's an immigrant unable to speak a word of English or a dignitary with half a dozen languages at his tongue's tip, after the visitor to this country has seen the Statue of Liberty and the Woolworth Tower, he always wants to know the whereabouts of "way down south in Dixie."

This is the discovery of Mary Margaret McBride, feature writer for the New York Evening Mail and other eastern publications whose daily business is the interviewing of celebrities.

"Invariably foreigners seem to have heard more about the south than any other section of the United States except New York," she declares.

South Arouses Curiosity
"I remember having tea at the Ritz with Mrs. W. L. George, just after the famous English writer brought his pretty bride here last winter. Mrs. George was trying, as she frankly admitted, to find out everything about America and she asked bushels of questions.

"Oh, I know I'll adore your south, she said finally. 'It's so romantic!'"

"Others who have asked eagerly about Dixie were Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord

Mayor of Ireland, Madame Marie Curie, of France, discoverer of radium and the other day, Frau Georg Michaelis, wife of the former chancellor to the German Kaiser.

"Even Margot Asquith, for all her show of superiority, looked almost interested when Kentucky and Virginia were mentioned.

Lady Astor Solves Problem
"Since I'm from Paris, Missouri, myself, I always take the tributes to the south as a sort of personal compliment but I was never able to figure out how people found out so much about that section until lovely Lady Astor, a Virginian transplanted to England came over not long ago.

"She said Dixie owed its fame to the song writers and ballad singers who press agent it continually. And when you think it over you see she's undoubtedly right.

Georgia Played 'Round the World
"Nearly every photograph in the world plays the modern fox trot 'Georgia,' with its famous lines:

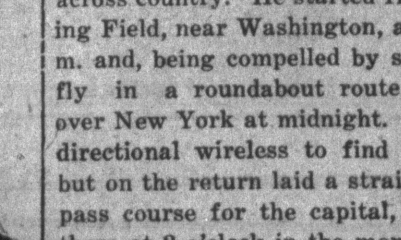

"You put the sweet
In Home Sweet Home,
My own sweet Georgia."

and every college quartette anywhere undoubtedly sings 'My Old Kentucky Home' and 'Dixie.' As for 'Swanee River,' missionaries find that savages use its tune for a war dance!

"They may call the south slow but they can't say she doesn't lead the country in getting free and effective publicity for herself!"

years and is therefore over a century old. The print is very plain and the book is a gem of thought.

New Record Is Made In Night Flying

Lieutenant Clayton Bissell, of the U. S. Army Air Service, has just completed the first airplane night flight across country. He started from Bolling Field, near Washington, at 9:30 p. m. and, being compelled by storms to fly in a roundabout route, arrived over New York at midnight. He used directional wireless to find his way, but on the return laid a straight compass course for the capital, reaching there at 2 o'clock in the morning.

We realize that it is often necessary for a firm to get printing done quickly. We do not believe that, in case of the rush order it is necessary to sacrifice Good Printing for speed.

Considering the speed on this kind of printing we do the quality of the work is invariably gratifying to our patrons.

Effort Launched To Curb the Klan

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A nationwide effort to curb activities of the Ku Klux Klan was announced here today with the formation of the American Unity League. Bishop Samuel Fallows, of the Reformed Episcopal church, was named honorary chairman, with Patrick H. O'Donnel, Chicago attorney, as chairman.

Why Copper Is Superior.
Lightning conductors are commonly made of copper because it "conducts" better than any other metal, will not fuse so easily and is less liable to corrosion. The fusing of metal by lightning is not because of the metal's weakness, but because it is too small to give a full path to the current.

Life as I See It.
They say men do not and cannot understand women. I see many women striving to make men of worthless material, and succeeding, too. There is in this something so near to the divine that I do not seek to understand it. I simply doff my hat in its presence as I would in a temple.—Louisville Courier Journal.

BIRTH

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Parish, Sunday evening, a 7 1-4 pound girl.

What Club Meant to Him.

Bobbie, a four-year-old, was invited to go with his mother to the Mother's club. He showed no great desire to go and, after his mother had repeatedly told him that she wanted him to go with her, said with a great show of resignation, "Well, I s'pose I'll have to, and let them hit me all they want to."

Silence and Wisdom.

Silence is very near akin to wisdom. There are folks who may not agree with that, yet it is true. Our old friend Cato said once: "The first virtue is to restrain the tongue; he approaches nearest to the gods who knows how to be silent, even though he be in the right."

How to Prepare Four Dainty Spring Dinners.

THE capricious spring appetite is a factor to be reckoned with in planning home dinners. Lighter foods should replace winter dishes, and should be tempting, yet hearty enough to satisfy, even though only small quantities are eaten. The following menus may suggest dishes and service which will be helpful to the at-home cook:

Menu.
Egg canapés.
Broiled shad, peas, potato balls.
Mixed green salad, crackers and cheese.
Strawberry shortcake.

Menu.
Cold beef soup.
Broiled veal cutlet, baked potatoes, cauliflower.
Onion and cucumber salad.
Cherry pie.
Iced coffee.

WEATHER

For Alabama: Fair tonight and Saturday; moderate temperature.

Success.

"No real man ever reaches what he calls 'success,'" said one of the biggest business men in this country. No one with high ideals is ever satisfied with his own achievement. With every high point gained, some higher peak still looms ahead. Because the high spirit reaches earth's last boundary and finds the goal still unattained, there must be new opportunities still waiting beyond. Even the desert mirage is but a reflection of what really exists somewhere.

Hawaiian Stamps.

The first woman's portrait to be placed on a Hawaiian stamp was that of the Princess Victoria Kaiulani, who appeared on the 1-cent issue of 1899. She was a daughter of Kamehameha V., one of the most energetic of the native rulers. In the 1882 issue a picture of the Princess Liliuokalani appears on the 1-cent value. Queen Liliuokalani graced the 2-cent stamp of the 1891 issue, the portrait being excellently engraved.

THANKS

I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks to my loyal friends throughout the county for the magnificent support given my candidacy for clerk of the Circuit court, and I most heartily congratulate Mr. Draper, my successful opponent.

With best wishes to all.
W. R. McCLUSKY.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, August 11.—The ship reporters of this city had a proposal en masse the other day—a serious proposal of marriage, from a comely girl, too. Not only did the offer include matrimony but a bonus of $100. It came from Miss Rose Poch, of 100 West Eighty-ninth street, who has lived here for ten years but went back to visit in Germany this summer, only to find when she tried to land the other day that our immigration laws kept her out of the country, however sincerely she had adopted it as her own. Marriage to an American citizen was her only seeing hope, and marriage she decided it should be. She promised furthermore that to the American who might rescue her in this way, she would never look for support. But the days of gallantry are over—or else every ship reporter was married, and respectful of the anti-bigamy laws.

Business men here are intensely interested in the scientific tariff measure to be introduced shortly by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey. His bill will take the tariff out of politics and create a tariff commission with powers to do everything—except pass the bill. This method will prevent months of fruitless debate in Congress and avoid the charges of lobbying now filling the press. Senator Frelinghuysen has given more study to the tariff, probably, than any other Congressman, with the avowed intention of solving this vexing problem and there seems to be strong sentiment in favor of his proposal for a scientific tariff as against the present political process. Manufacturers, business men, and importers here are much concerned over the tariff situation and feel that practically anything would be preferable to the present condition. It is said that they are practically unanimous in their support of Senator Frelinghuysen, and it is expected that their influence will be felt in Washington.

There is no limit to the field and the power of the up-to-the-minute vamp? One would expect a blind man to be safe from their wiles. But Mrs. Margaret Grantzow declares that her blind son, Andrew, took care of her in comfort on $75 a week he made out of the industrious occupation of begging. Then along came a "vamp," and realizing—so Mrs. Grantzow insists, the well-paying condition of that profession, she cultivated him and is getting it all, in consequence.

Southampton, L. I., is always the scene of some of our smartest summer weddings, but not all season has there been one which attracted more attention and held the interest of the place more fascinated than that of Rosa Stephens and Pete Molt, Jr., which was celebrated last week. Rosa is the nineteen years-old daughter of Sancho Stephens, chief of a tribe of gypsies, and her husband is a gypsy prince. The gowns of Southampton brides are always described in detail in our society columns and they are always quite worth the space, but Rosa's wedding gown was above the vagaries of style. She walked in the dignity of wearing the same costume which would have garbed her great-grandmother, and generations back of that, at a similar ceremony. The flaming raiment of the gypsy bride is decreed by tradition as old as civilization itself—voluminous skirts of scarlet and peacock blue, waist of heavy white silk, scarf of rainbow radiance, and weighted down with necklaces of gold coins.

Ethel Barrymore's first play of the season will be "Hedda Gabler," in which she will be seen at the Longacre Theater. She will play other Ibsen roles later in the season. And we hear that John Barrymore will be seen in Eugene O'Neill's, "The Fountain." First reports were that brother Lionel was to have that play and John was to keep on in the films, but since everyone is satisfied with anything just so it's a Barrymore playing in it, we are quite satisfied with the change from one of them to the other.

Have you any papers to identify you as a citizen of this country? I am sure I haven't and I am perfectly hooked once in a while to learn of the terrible things which may happen to you if you are not properly certified in that way. Here is Cleg Vanderbilt, an actress who says she was born in this city 26 years ago, but he has no papers to that effect. Consequently, she has been denied admittance to the United States this last time she has returned from a trip to Europe and is held at Ellis Island. Of course, she isn't a citizen of any other country, so she can't get papers from anywhere and unless somebody in the proper government department gets a glimmer of an idea about what to do, it looks as if she would just have to stay aboard ship indefinitely, a woman without a country.

WHY WOMEN GET DESPONDENT
Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's, more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.—advertisement.

WEAK; RUN-DOWN

Carolina Lady Got So She Could Just Drag—"Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.

Kernersville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mabe, of near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago. I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't eat or sleep to do any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, yet I continued to drag. "I decided to give Cardui a trial, and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good. "Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did. "I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired out all the time. It brought her right out, and soon she was as well as a girl could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui." Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. For more than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and found just as Mrs. Mabe describes. At your druggist's. NO-145

REMARKABLE PICTURE OF FATAL RAILROAD WRECK

Thirty-seven persons were killed and 137 others injured, twenty-five of them seriously, when passenger train No. 32, of the Missouri & Bonfite Terre Railroad, an all-steel train, crashed into the rear end of the fast Texas train No. 4 of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, on a high bridge near Sulphur Springs, Mo. The engineer in charge of the M. & B. T. Train is said to have disregarded block signals. He was killed. Four of the wooden coaches were crushed to splinters and three others hurled off the bridge.

REMINISCENCES

By J. ADLAI WEST

SOME MEN I HAVE KNOWN

That the earlier pioneers of the country had well established plans of life and matured ideas which governed their daily lives, is well known to those who watched and observed these citizens of the earlier days of his country, and that these ideas and plans were industriously followed in their daily walk and conversation cannot be successfully denied.

Rugged simplicity marked many of them, but they arrived at conclusions and formed opinions of public matters with a certainty which rarely ever missed the mark aimed at. In many respects these were the ones who charted the uncharted realm of the domain where they resided; they set up standards which were rigidly adhered to; drew conclusions from facts as they existed, and the one purpose and aim was to arrive at the right thing, and just thing, in all their transactions. This gave to them the name, custodians of the country, because they guarded with a jealous eye her every interest, confident that the policy which they were pursuing was for the best interests of the country which they were so much devoted to. To these pioneers the country owes much. Their faith in God, and the ultimate triumph of His word, did much to lay the firm foundation upon which the splendid superstructure of the present is reared.

Among them, the sabbath was rigidly observed, and it was held as a sacred day. Among the ones which I vividly remember, is Dr. William Morrow. A Presbyterian of the "old school," who considered it a sacred duty, and arranged all his business accordingly. Prompt in attendance of all the functions of his church, taking his place along with others who thus observed, these stand out in the history of the country as the preservers of the past, and their actions are handed down to those of the present, in marked contrast to the established rules of today.

It was my good fortune to be at his home often, and I remember a favorite saying of his, which was thus: "Boys, this is the holy sabbath day, you must neither work or play." And we didn't. Mr. Morrow was in the twilight of his life when I was a boy. I remember him as he sat complacently nearing the end of his earthly existence, thoroughly possessed with his saintly ideas of right, and nothing could daunt him or swerve him from the path he had so plainly marked out for himself. These did not live in vain. When a halt is called among the swift moving events of today, and stock is taken and contrast made, these of the past stand out in bold relief against the lark pall of doubt and uncertainty which exists today, and points the way to the hilts of certainty, where doubt and confusion are not known.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It takes the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowest from the eyes, and it gives Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable slices. The larger size is the more economical.
